PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY SAMUEL SNOWDEN, Royal etreet, Alexandria.

Daily Gazette, 6 Dollars per annum. Country Gazette, 5 Doilars.

From the United States Gazette:

DAY OF RECKONING.

The following is an extract of a letter addressed to the transcriber, from a respectable farmer of Delaware. I publish it, that the farmers generally may be induced to make their calculations. They have felt the embargo, and know partly its effects. Many, however, have been fulled to repose by the Delilah of democracy; and though nothing can convince them of the profit of the measure, tacy are still e sy under the deceptive assurance that they lose nothing by it? But let them calculate, and astonishment will succeed at the discovery of a slight of hand, practised upon them that has robbed the agricultural interest of MILLIONS! Hardly a poor man but will feel he has lost the value of a cow, of horse, perhaps of a small piece of ground where he might sit down in ease; all in consequence of a ruinous embargo, laid by our democratic leaders, without one solid reason for the measure, while the wealthier, more able to bear the burden imposed on them, will yet feel, with a vengeance, the iron paw of " THIS MAMMOTH SCOURGE." Think of it friends, and let your votes at the next election, speak a voice or THUNDBR to the ears of the men who under a canting veneration for the people have betrayed them into this great national suffering. PHILO AGRICOLA.

DEAR SIR, The ruin to which the farmer is subjected in consequence of the embargo, it is almost impossible for you, or my resident in the city, to have a just conception of. You will probably recollect the size of the farm I occupy, on which, with indefatigable industry, I have been able for the few years past, to average 800 bushels of wheat, 500 of corn, and 100 of rye. Taking this sketch as my guide, I shall offer you a rough statement of the loss hin it my own person, from an Embargo, that during one year's visit has done more injury to the farmer than all the mildews, locusts, blasts and vermin, that wielded destruction, and destroyed the fair truits of industry, in any one country since the days of Pharoah!

um 1805, a surplus of produce remains. Say, Last year's crop 700 nearly entire, 800 Present year at least So that I have on hand of corn 750 bushels, wheat 1540, rye 160, which, estimated at the prices of the past and present year, stand

The value, therefore, of the grain in my hands at the rate of sale in 1807, being 3,534 dollars, and now only 1,839 dollars, a depreciation of one thousand six hundred and ninety five dollars on my own farm alone, all in consequence of this embargo, which the folly or corruption of the administration has imposed upon us, and from which, for aught I can see, no good has, or ever will result. All the land taxes, stump acts. &c. &c. against which I once joined in the huc and cry, foolishly enough, I ucknowledge, shrink into nothing before this mammoth scourge. Then, because a mere atom of my income was required by a tax which I knew was temporary and which I since have perceived under the blessing of heaven, was the only means of averting the scourge of French fraternity—I murmured. Now that almost half my property is taken to please, perhaps, the whim whams of a speculator, and indulge the mandates of the terrible Napoleon, you sarcastically tell me to chaunt songs of gratitude to the author of this mischief! No. sir1 My eyes are open, I can trace now all the wiles by which our rulers have supplanted the desciples of Washington, and I rejoice to find that the embargo, has at least one good effect that of awakening the people to a sense of their own interests. The effect of the elections which approach, I trust will have a commanding influence in our affairs; but even then, after the men are removed from office, while property being pushed out, will be sacrificed for nothing, and the continuance of a glut in foreign markets by every successive crop, will so keep down the prices of our produce, that for years the farmer counting up his annual profit, will say, "but for that embargo I should have been a wealthy man. The policy then of the people is to rise in their majesty, and by a change of men, ensure a change of measures—the more speedily the more will their interests be subserved, while there is no question that all the difficulties & privations we are now suffering, would in all probability be removed or adjusted on terms compatible with the honor and interest of our country. AGRICOLA.

FOREIGN. (VIA BOSTON.)

PARIS, June 7. On the night of the days before yesterday arrived here general Sebastian, ambassador of his Franch imperal majesty at the Sublime Porte, who lately left Constantinople.

Fune 17. The following order is extracted from the Madrid Gazette of June 4, published by direction of the minister of the state, dispatches ad interim, under the date of May 22, 1808, viz.

" His imperial highness the lieutenant-general of the kingdom (Murat) has been pleased to order, that the ships belonging to the United States of America, which were detained in the ports of Spain, on the ground of their being visited by the English, shall Pedro de Cifuentes."

LONDON, June 27. The Gazette of Saturday contains an order in council allowing the importation of staves, lumber, and all kinds of provisions (excepting beef, pork and butter) in neutral or friendly ships, into all our West Indian and South American possessions, until the 22d of June, 1809; or until six months after notice may be given in the Gazette of the revocation of this permission. A French squadron, with 8000 troops, destined to take possession of Carthagena, was met with by a number of British ships of war, and completely destroyed. Two of their frigates, and all their transports were sunk, and two ships of the line were boarded, and their crews put to the sword. The English lost their ships. The action was fought between Alicant and Carthagena, on the 24th May.

In the single province of Asturias, there have been raised and equipped 150,000

Twelve artillery waggons went from the bank yesterday with money, which, it is supposed, is intended to be embarked for Sweden.

PRECAUTIONS

Which it would be proper to observe throughout the different provinces of Spain, in the necessity to which they have been driven by the French, of resisting the unjust and violent possession which their armies are endeavoring to take of the kingdom.

We cannot doubt a moment of the exertions which the united provinces of Spain would make to obstruct and defeat the malicious designs of the French, and that they will sacrifice even their lives on this occasion, the most important, and even unparalleled in the history of the nation, both in the thing itself and in the horrible means of ingratitude and perfidy by which the French have undertaken, pursued, and are now endeavoring to effect our slavery:

1. Let the first object be to avoid all general actions, and convince ourselves of the very great hazards, without any advantage, or even the hope of it, to which they would expose us. The reasons of this resolution are many, and such as any one will discover who has the use of his understanding.

2. A war of partisans is the system which suits us: the embarrassing and wasting the enemy's armies by want of provisions, destroying bridges, throwing up entrenchments in proper situations, and other similar means. The situation of Spain, its many mountains, and the passes which they present, its rivers and torrents, and even the collocation of its provinces, invite us to carry on this species of warfare successfully.

3. It is indispensable that each province should have its general, of known talent, and of such experience as our situation permits, that his heroic loyalty should inspire the utmost confidence; and that every general should have under his command officers of merit, particularly artillery and engineers.

4. As a combined union of plans is the soul of every well concerted enterprise, and auccessful laste, to a that there should be three generalizations, who should act in concert with each otherone who should command in the four king doms of Andalusia, in Murcia and Lower Estramadura-another in Galucia, Upper Estramadura, old and New Castile, and Leon-another in Valencia, Arragon and Catalonia, a person of the greatest credit being appointed to Navarre, the Biscayan provinces, Montanus, Asturias, Rioja, and North of Old Castile, for the purposes which will be mentioned hereafter.

5. Each of these generals and generalissimos will form an army of veterans, troops, and peasantry united and put himself in a situation to undertake enterprizes, and to succor the exposed points, keeping up always a frequent communication with the other generalissimos in order that all may act by common accord, and assist one another.

6. Madrid and La Mancha require an especial general, to concert and execute the enterprizes which their particular local situation demands—his only object must be to embarrass the enemy's armies, to take away or cut off their provisions, to attack them in flank and rear, and not to leave them a moment to repose. The courage of these inhabitants is well known, and they will eagerly embrace such enterprizes if they are led as they should be. In the succession war the enemy entered twice into the interior of the kingdom, and even as far as its capital, and this was the cause of their defeat, their entire ruin, and their utter failure of success.

7. The generalissimos of the north and east will block up the entrances to the provinces under their command, and come to the assistance of any one that may be attacked by the enemy, to prevent as much as possible all pillage, and preserve its inhabitants from the desolation of war; the many mountains and defiles which are on the confines of these provinces being favorable to such projects.

8. The destination of the general of Navarre, Biscay, and the rest of this department is the most important of all, in which he will be assisted by the generals of the north and east, with the troops and other succors which he stands in need of. His whole business must be to shut the entrance of Spain against fresh troops, and to harrass and destroy those that return from Spain to France by this point. The very rugged local situation of these provinces will be of singular advantage in such a design, and these enterprizes, it well concerted and carried into execution will no doubt be successful; and the same may be understood of the different points by which the French troops which are in Portugal may come into Spain, or by which French croops may enter through Roussillon into Catalonia, for there is not much to be apprehended for Arragon. And, even from Portugal, it is not thought that they will escape, on account of the proclamations which have been circulated in that kinghom, and the hatred which they before bore to the French being increased without measure by the innumerable evils which they have been made to suffer, and the creel oppression in which they are held by them.

9. At the same time it would be very proper that the generalissimos should publish and circulate frequent proclamations amongst the people, and rouse their courage and loyalty, shewing them that they have every thing to fear from the borrible perfidy with which the French have dealt with all Spain, and even with their king Ferdinand VII. and that if they rule over us, all is lost, kings, monarchy, property, liberty. independence and religion; and that therefore it is necessary to sacrifice our lives and property in defence of the king and country, and though our lot (which we hope will never come to pass) should destine us to become slaves, let us become so fighting and dying like gallant men, not giving up ourselves basely to the yoke like sheep, as the late infamous government would have done, and fixing upon Spain and her slavery eternal ignominy and disgrace. France has never demineered over us, nor set her foot in our territory with impunity. We have many times mastered her, not by deceit, but by force of arms; we have made her kings prisoners, and we have made the nation tremble—we are the same Spaniards-France and Europe, and the world shall see that we are not less gallant, nor less brave than the most glorious of our ancestors.

10. All persons of education in the provinces should be stimulated to frame, print and publish frequent short discourses, in order to preserve the public opinion, and the arder of the nation, confuting at the same time the infamous diaries of Madrid, which the baseness of the late government has permitted, and still permits, to be published in Madrid itself, and has caused to be cirwho have brought this evil upon us, a stagnat- I that which alone can promise and facilitate culated abroad detecting their falsehood ver with shame the miserald these diaries and sometimes exten remarks to those Chamarans the French zetteers, and even to their Monin let them display and publish to Spain Lurope their horrible falschoods and ropraises, for they afford abundant man such a work. Let all such perverted mind tremble at Spain, and let France known ae Spaniards have thoroughly pen their designs, and therefore it is that it justly detest and abominate them, and a they will sooner lay down their lives to submit to their iniquitous and barban

11. Care shall be taken to explain to nation and to convince them, that who freed as we trust to be, from this civily to which the French have forced us and when placed in a state of tranquility as lord and king Perdinand VII. being ed to the throne, under him and by him to courts will be assembled, abuses reform and such laws shall be enacted as their cumstances of the time and experience may dictate for the public good and happing Things which we Spaniards know how h do, which we have done as well as othern. tions, without any necessity that the vil French should come to instruct us, and an cording to their custom under the mast d Friendship, and wishes for our happines contrive, for this alone they are contriving to plunder us, to violate our women to assassinate us, to deprive us of our liberty our laws and our king, to scoff at and do stroy our holy religion, as they have hither. to done, and will always continue to do so long as that spirit of perfidy and ambition which oppresses and tyranises over them shall endure.

Juan Baptista Pardo, By order of the Supreme Junta.

BY THIS DAY'S MAIL.

K. September 5. Accounts from Campeachy (received by the brig Troy) state, that the Spaniards at the place have declared in favor of Ferdinand the Seventh, and the cause of the patriots in Spain.

The arrival of the ship Constellation, from Batavia, announced in this day's marine lis, is a new proof of the comparative moderation of the British over the French. This ressel has a very valuable cargo, and was boarded to our coast by two English ressels of war, the brig Ferret, captain Wales, and the ship Penelope. captain Dick, who treated her with great politeness, and let her proceed on het royage. Had she met a French cruizer, (which thank God do not swarm the ocean) what would have been her fate under the Baronne decree, although from one of Bonaparte's own vassal ports? This valuable arrival is a new proof at once of the WISDOM of the embargo, the "piratical" disposition of the English, and the power of the French on the ocean!

We have authority to state from an authortic source, that Bonaparte having arranged for the division of Turkey in Europe with Alexander the emperor of Russia, had march ed an army into Dalmatia, said to be 50,000 men.

That the Turkish government drove every Frenchman out of Constantinople, declared war against France and dispatched an ambas sador to London. Election. We have not yet received official returns from either New Hampshire or Rhode Island. It is, however, placed beyond all doubt, that the federalists have succeeded in both states. In the former, the majority will be from 4 to 6000-in the latter, about 400. Such glorious successes should animate the hopes, and invigorate the efforts of the friends to the country in all the states where elections are yet to be holden.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT. Our pure democrats, in speaking of the rising of the patriots in Spain, all adopt the precise language of the old tories in 1775, and thus endravor to frighten the friends to the right of self government out of their hopes in favour of an insulted people. Travellers from Vermont say, that there a Canton, for Antwerp. Spoke in the 'is scarcely room to doubt of their elections being completely federal. LATEST FROM THE HAVANNA.

By the schr Republican, Newhall (says the N. Y. Ev. Post' from Havanna, we have received several numbers of the Aurora of that city. The articles of intelligence which they contain have been anticipated by the late arrivels from Gibralter and England, but they also contain a number of official documents, among which is the Manifesto of the Supreme Council of Seville, in the highest degree interesting. It shall be given in our next. In the mean time we give the following letter

"Murat! the loyal and valiant Spanish na ion, armed en masse, not tumultuously, but well organized, has 300,000 combatants, prepared and ready to fall upon you and your army; in the mean time respect the lives of your fellow citizens, as well in the capitol as in the other places, which by treachery you are in possession of; that moderation alone can save you; like lions we will defend our sovereign and our families. You have deceived yourself in supposing us barbarians, we shall be so only in the vengeance which we intend to take of you, if you perfidiously shed the pacific blood of those who have incautiously suffered themselves to beldisarmed. Think of our victories of St. Quintin and Pavia; we are the same now that we were then: -posterity will with honor commemorate our efforts; we shall recover our ancient splendor. The nation will break the unworthy chains which you had prepared for it: 14 millions of souls are not to be conquered by proclamations : let us hasten to victory. Spain. we are already free "

It is a fair, and we trust it will prove a correct inference, from these proceedings in the eastern states, that the dignified sentiment of gen. Pinckney

Yesterday afternoon, a son of Daniel Stansbury, aged about 5 years, who had fallen off the dock into the East River, was taken up cold and apparently dead; but by the medical sid of doctors Bloodgood and Ricketson, was reanimated and restored to life, to the admiration of many, as well as great joy of his pa-

This case is recorded to show, that there is not only hope of life, but that the latent spark of vitality may be seemingly extinguished a considerable space, and afterwards revived by continuing resusciating process a sufficient length of time; and is recommended to the attention of every citizen, as well as the faculty, wherever similar accidents may occur,

The same process is equally advisable, and has sometimes been found effectual in suspended animation from suffocation, hanging, Convulsions.—In the last number of that valuable work, the Medical Repository, we find an account of two cases of convulsions relieved by violent pressure over the stomach. This distressing disease, so alarming in its appearance, and, oftentimes, so fatal in its effects, demands from the friends of humani. ty and the professors of the healing art, every aid which their exertions and their talents can bestow for its relief. When the means of certain relief can be understood and applied by any bye-stander, the knowledge of it becomes extremely valuable and important to the community. We therefore feel it to be our duty to give an abstract of the two follow.

Doctor Samuel Brown, of New Orleans, was called, at different times, to two patients in convulsions. To the first he gave the usual remedies without effect, but, recoilecting that convulsions had been relieved by a bandage tied tightly round the body, he proceeded to apply it, and while attempting to tighten it, his hand was pressed with some force into the pit of the stomach. A change in the countedress to the legislature of that state, he tells uance of the patient was immediately perceived, and on the augmentation of the pressure his countenance brightened into cheerfulness. He smiled and begged the pressure to be increased. When the pressure was removed the convulsions returned. This experiment families, or privalic br was repeated several times to establish the two, near Me agra. certainty of the relief afforded by the pressure. The patient ultimately went to sleep with the whole weight of the doctor's body resting on his knee, in the pit of the patients

The second case was relieved in the sales way, but the pressure made by the knackles in the pit of the stomach was found summent. She had been in convulsions for an hour and in five minutes was relieved by the pressure.
